

Flying WILD Workshop for Educators

Tuesday October 24, 2006

Great Falls Discovery Center, Turners Falls

9:00 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.

or

Thursday October 26, 2006

Great Meadows National Wildlife Refuge, Sudbury

9:00 a.m. - 3:30 p.m.

If you work with middle school audiences and are interested in helping students understand the importance of migratory birds and their conservation through classroom activities and school bird festivals then attending this workshop would be a feather in your cap.

Why a workshop on birds? With a presence in urban areas, diversity of form, spectacular coloration and amazing abilities of flight, birds are a great hook for promoting students interest in learning about the environment.

Learn about teacher led classroom activities, volunteer & student led festival activities, and service learning projects. The material you glean will help students lead hands-on experiments, create educational exhibits, stage performances, and accomplish bird conservation projects. Topics to be explored may include diversity & adaptation of organisms, habitat issues, scientific inquiry, migration, cultural connections, identification, monitoring, conservation needs, and role of birds in maintaining ecosystems.

This workshop will be a fun filled, interactive, hands-on experience in conducting activities and implementing the Flying WILD (www.flyingwild.org) program while also learning how to become a City Partner.

Cost of workshop is $15 (includes light refreshments, Flying WILD curriculum guide, & supporting material). Please bring lunch, coffee mug, and clothing for indoor & outdoor activities.

Questions? Contact Pam Landry, MassWildlife, (508) 792-7270 x 110 or pam.landry@state.ma.us

Flying WILD Workshop Registration Form

Name: _____ Organization/Affiliation: _____

Mailing address: _____ City/State/Zip: _____

E-mail: _____ Phone: _____

What is your interest in attending the workshop?

Intended audience: ☐ scouts ☐ after school ☐ general public ☐ urban youth ☐ classroom
☐ other (please specify) _____

Please mail completed registration along with a $15 check payable to Project WILD/MassWildlife Federation to Pam Landry, MassWildlife, 1 Rabbit Hill Road, Westboro, MA 01581. Registration & payment must be received by October 10TH. Confirmation & directions will be sent upon receipt of registration & payment.